

Hearts Of Black Science

Driverlights

This May, Hearts Of Black Science release Driverlights as the second single from their debut album The Ghost You Left Behind. Driverlights takes a leather-clad pinch of Black Rebel Motorcycle Club and stirs it up with some oily 80s synth-pop sounds and ethereal vox. The result is a subtle, yet catchy wedge of organic-electronica.

Hearts Of Black Science are childhood friends Daniel Ånghede (Vocals, Guitars, Bass and former vocalist of Astroqueen) and Tomas Almgren (Synths, Programming, Beats, ex-horror movie director and half of robotic electro duo Teliaroboten). In November 2005 they set up studio deep within an abandoned subterranean power plant in their home-town of Gothenburg, Sweden. The isolation of this one-time industrial cavern provided a perfect haven for them to experiment day and night. In April 2006 the band released a self financed EP that sold out in just 2 months via MySpace - a second EP was released the following month. Since then the band has been building up a devoted following touring in Sweden and the UK.

Hearts of Black Science will be back in London this month for more live shows. The band have their second BBC 6Music session coming up in May, for the Tom Robinson show, followed by a UK tour to promote the new single and album.

"This Swedish outfit crackle like an ambient Depeche Mode or a fuzzy Coldplay..." The Fly

"Noir stained poetry set to bleeding guitars and throbbing bass, HOBS possess the hooky might to win over millions, yet their music is gorgeously subtle and perplexing - something to lose yourself within..." Subba-Cultcha

"....the Hearts of Black Science will dominate your stereo.....blistering anthems that swirl underneath a desperate and compelling vocal." Soudsxp.com

"Hearts of Black Science find ways to tug at the emotions, and to soothe fresh wounds.... one of the most interesting and exciting albums released so far this year." MusicOMH

"constancy and intelligence, as well as the passion and edge that are ever longed for in a debut..." Gigwise.com
