

The Feeling Good Conspiracy

Biography

We were born in a bar.

March 2003, Marc was in Texas avoiding rain and writing songs and Gwen and Ade were on a road trip. They met in the Continental Club in Austin listening to an ex-junkie sing songs and get drunk, they got talking.

Back in London in August Marc and Gwen played a string of acoustic gigs warmly welcomed by audiences curious to see what noise a guitar, violin and voice would make. Reports were that it was a good noise. The sound started growing and there were more instruments, maracas, tenor recorder, theremin and backing vocals. Ben, Ade and Jim were recruited and the full band began rehearsing... And so The Feeling Good Conspiracy was born.
